

CHRISTOPHER INFANTE

Christopher Daniel Infante began teaching in 2001 with the Miami High School Marching Band. In his tenure as Co-Caption head Miami Senior High went on to win various high drum trophies every year until his departure in 2005 when he moved to build a percussion program at Palmetto High School. At Palmetto, Christopher was the Caption Head and battery arranger all four years. They won numerous drum trophies, and many of his students ventured out to numerous successful drum corps and indoor ensembles. Currently, Christopher is rebuilding a marching percussion program at Coral Reef Senior high with his fellow STRYKE colleagues Gabriel Urbay and John Paul Infante.

In 2005, Christopher was the Bass drum tech and battery visual tech for the Kiwanis Cavaliers alongside Caption Head Joseph Kuerzi. In 2006 and 2007, he was the bass instructor, marching instructor and drill designer for the Paradox Percussion Theatre. In conjunction with his colleague, Tony del Rivero, they worked the merger of Paradox and STRYKE Percussion, which was a great success. In 2008 and 2009 he taught with STRYKE Percussion Ensemble and helped the group achieve their first bronze medal and establish STRYKE as one of the elite in WGI. Currently Christopher is Bass Drum Tech alongside various administrative duties.

Christopher marched with the South Florida Percussion Company indoor drumline from 2001 – 2003, the Kiwanis Cavaliers in 2003 and in 2004 for the Magic of Orlando. Christopher was also the percussion captain for the Florida International Marching band from 2004-2005.

Christopher Infante holds a M.S. in Economics and a B.A. in Economics from Florida International University in Miami, FL. and currently works full time as the Head Emerging Market Bond Trader for Global Strategic Investments, LLC.
